Africa Sect Masses For New Attack

Rhodesians Kill 65 Lumpas In Charge Upon Small Village

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Determined disciples of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect were reported massing today in another area of Northern Rhodesia after government forces mopped up their headquarters village.

The Northern Rhodesian government said its troops killed 65 Lumpas and wounded 50 more of the warrior tribesmen who made a suicidal charge Thursday from the village of Sione — in the Chinsali area 500 miles northeast of Lusaka.

Previously the government had reported 30 Lumpas and 11 others killed in more than a week of violence. In addition, refugee Africans have reported the Lumpas massacred 200 inhabitants of two villages near Sione.

Police said a large concentration of the sect was reported gathering at Chipundu, 70 miles south of Chinsali. Officials feared the fighting would spread through Northern Rhodesia's bush-covered northern province, an area as large as Britain.

The followers of Lumpa prophetess Alice Lenshina showed no fear at Sione as wave after wave of them, armed with spears or old muzzle loaders, charged the troops, armed with rifles and Bren guns.

A government spokesman said six soldiers were slightly wounded.

The troops moved into Sione and routed a number of spear-armed women from the sect's brick "cathedral" with tear gas.

County Judge To Run Again

MacDonald Enters For 4-Year Term

County Judge James L. MacDonald of near Lisbon filed Thursday afternoon with the County Election Board to seek a new four-year term at the Nov. 3 general election.

Judge MacDonald now is serving in a two-year term to which he was named in the 1962 general election. A resident of Lisbon R. D. 4, he is a former county prosecuting attorney.

The term for which he filed will expire Dec. 31, 1968. The two other county judges were elected for four-year terms in 1962, so their tenures will run for two more years. They are Judge Herbert Arfman, who presides in East Palestine, and Judge Luther Donbar, whose court is in Salem.

Judge MacDonald's name will appear on the non-partisan judicial ballot. The county court district is comprised of all territory outside East Liverpool and Liverpool Township, which make up the Municipal Court jurisdiction.

5 Youngsters Perish In Blaze At Baltimore

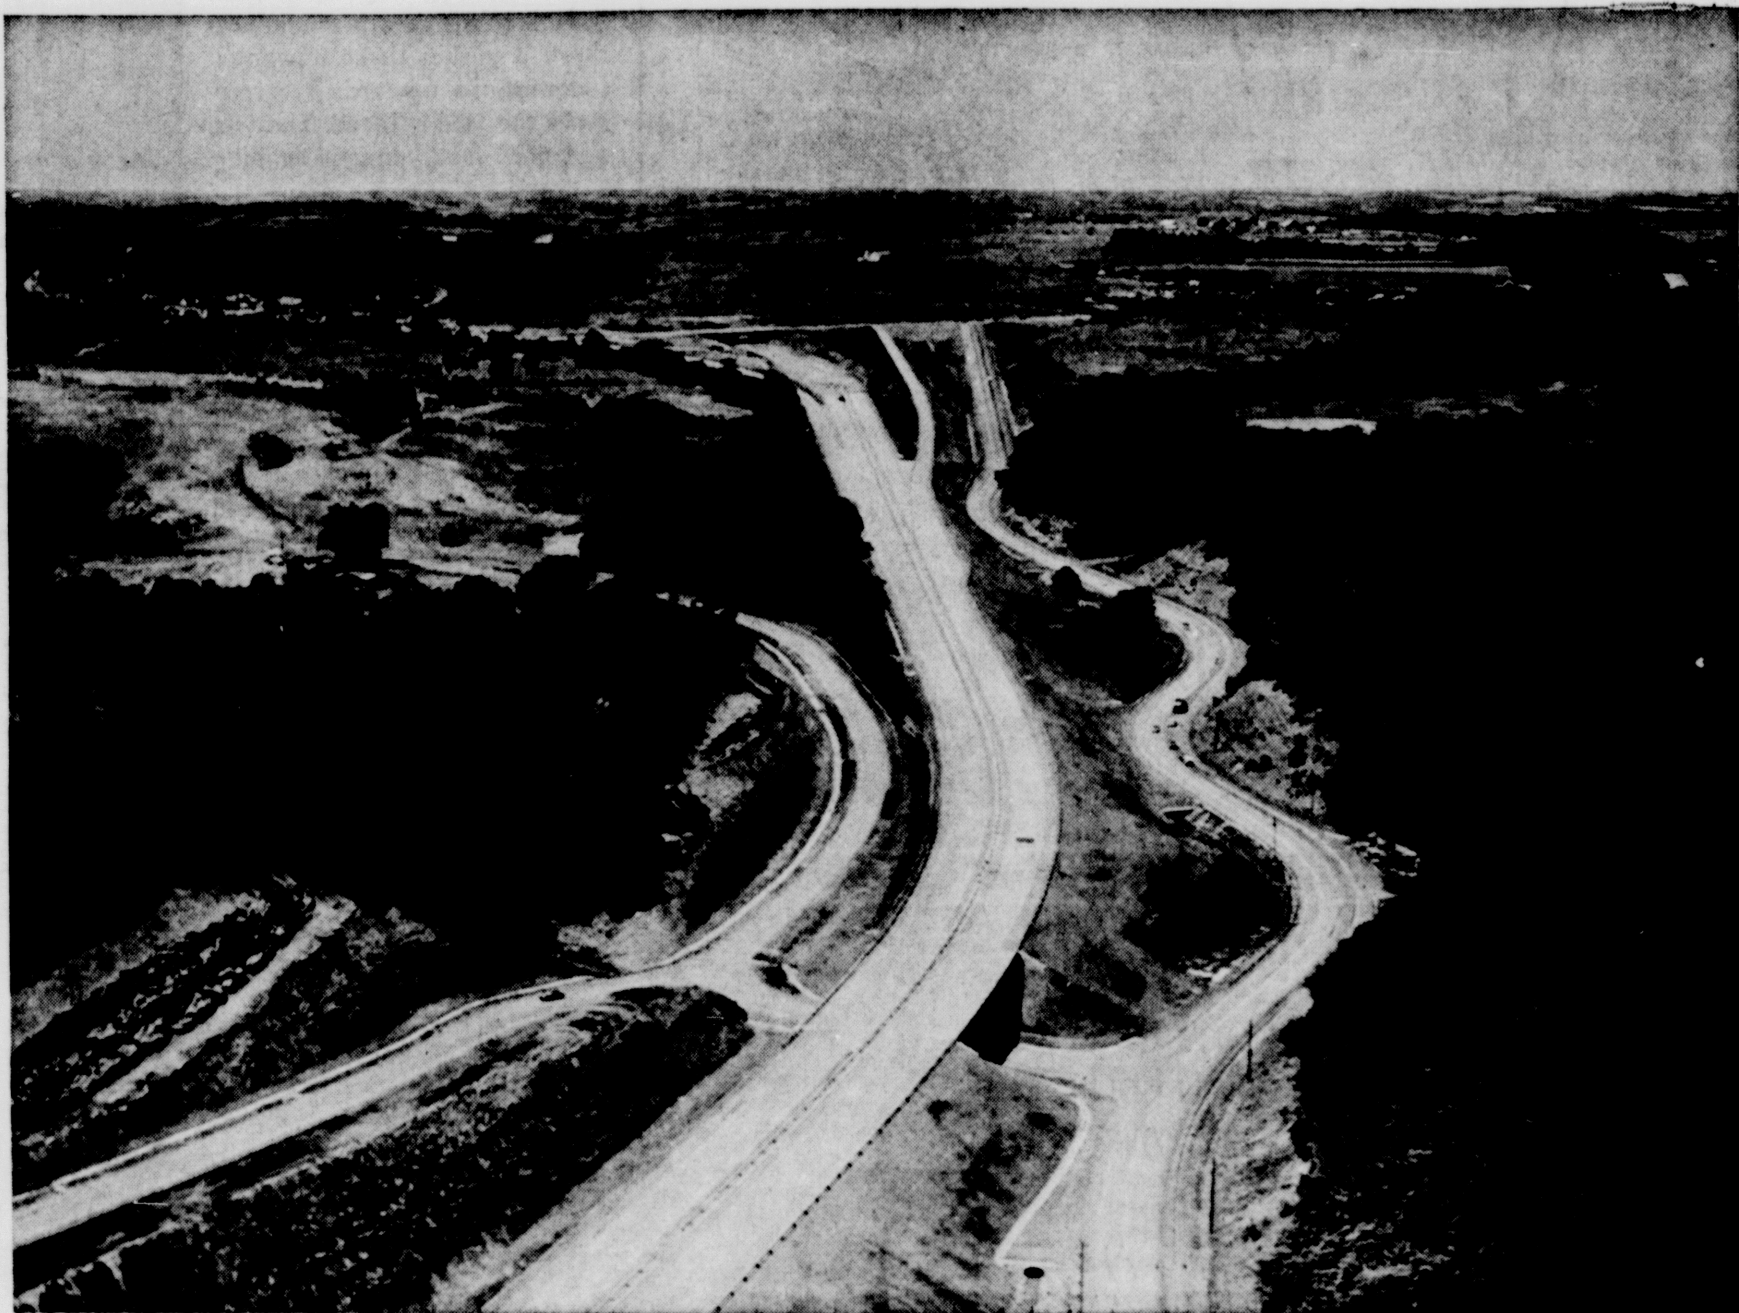

BALTIMORE (AP)—A mother tried in vain to save five of her children, all under 8 years old, who perished in a fire that swept their home Thursday.

Found dead huddled in a corner of their third-floor apartment were Casandra Jane Clark, 7; Beverly, 6; Duane, 5; Reginald, 4; and Fannie, 3, all children of Mrs. Norma Jean Clark, 31.

The mother, who was on the first floor, said flames from the second floor repulsed her attempts to climb the stairs to her trapped children.

A 10-year-old daughter, Veronica, escaped from the house and another child, Floyd Jr., 12, was not at home when the fire started.

THE NEW AND THE OLD in highway design and construction show graphically in this aerial view of a stretch of the new area Freeway segment, which will be in full use after a dedication ceremony within the next two weeks—probably on Aug. 10. Winding gracefully through the center of the photo, from bottom to top, is the new four-lane highway that stretches from the city limits to Route 170 at Substation. Underneath it, marked by a shadow, is an underpass that connects the new Westfield Rd. with old Route 30—to the right of the road. The old Route 30, now three lanes in that area thanks to a modernization a few years ago, will revert to the county highway system when the outbound Freeway lanes go into use. A dedicatory luncheon program and ribbon-cutting ceremony were planned Thursday afternoon by the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The date will be set definitely within a few days.

Rite May Be Aug. 10

Freeway Lanes To Be Dedicated

The outbound lanes of the new Freeway segment from a point inside the city limits to Substation will be opened to traffic in a dedication ceremony within the next two weeks — probably on Monday, Aug. 10 — the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce was advised Thursday afternoon.

The committee met to work out preliminary plans for a ribbon-cutting ceremony opening the two-mile improvement. It will follow a luncheon program at the Travelers Hotel at which New Philadelphia and Columbus officials of the State Highway Department will be guests, along with city and county officials and others.

THE DATE for the dedication will be set definitely within the next day or so, Atty. Francis H. Lang, chairman, advised the committee.

The Great Lakes Construction Co. of Cleveland, contractor, was to pour concrete today on a 130-foot stretch to replace pavement that was torn up in repairing drainage work. The Highway Department said there will be a delay of seven to 10 days before traffic will be allowed over the newly-poured concrete.

Expecting to set a definite date as soon as the repaving is completed, the Highway Department suggested holding the dedication either on Aug. 10 or Wednesday, Aug. 12. But the details of the program worked out yesterday will remain unchanged, regardless of the date.

THE OBSERVANCE will begin with a luncheon at noon at the hotel. A representative of the Highway Department's central office in Columbus will be principal speaker, discussing the area improvement and the outlook for planning and construction on the next stages in the district.

The Freeway segment is a part of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Highway, which eventually will connect Ohio River ports at East Liverpool with Lake Erie docks at Ashtabula.

Following the luncheon program at the hotel, the guests will form an auto caravan to a

Crews Seek 10th Man In French Mine

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP) — Feeble tapping heard again today from the limestone mine beneath Mt. Rivel heightened hopes that a 10th — and possibly an 11th — miner may have survived the cave-in four days ago.

The tapping was heard for more than four hours at irregular intervals last night, then resumed again at 6 a.m. A large drill was hurriedly installed above the spot.

Nine miners who escaped Monday's rockfall are being supplied with food, clothing and other necessities and appeared in no immediate danger.

The tapping came from a point where two of the five miners still missing were known to have been working Monday when a tunnel in the quarry mine caved in, entombing 14 men.

Upper-40's Provide Heat Wave 'Contrast'

From one extreme to the other—that was Columbiana County's weather picture this morning as temperatures dipped to the upper-40's in the rural area for a chilly contrast to the late but not lamented heat wave.

Edwin Copeland, U.S. weather observer at Millport, reported an overnight low of 47 degrees. The downtown registered 54 at 6 a.m. The morning low seldom fell below 70 during the heat wave that ended Wednesday.

Tonight's low will be 55 to 60 with a gradual warming up through Saturday.

Harlem Gets Little Action On Demands

Wagner Scheduled To Make Statement On Racial Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — After talks with Mayor Robert F. Wagner over a four-day period, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has given no indication of any agreement on major demands by New York City's Negroes.

At a news conference Thursday he urged round-the-clock negotiations on a Harlem unity committee's nine-point program.

He also called Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy "utterly unresponsive" to Negroes' demands.

Wagner, who has twice scheduled and then canceled news conferences after meetings with King, said he would have a statement today. The two men had three meetings of about four hours each.

After last week's racial rioting and looting in Harlem and in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, Harlem leaders made two principal demands:

1. Suspension of white police Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan, who shot and killed a Negro boy. Police say it was done in self-defense. The shooting touched off the bloody rioting.

2. Formation of a civilian

3 Injured When Car Wrecks On Route 30

Three were injured when a car wrecked at 3:50 a. m. today on Route 30 a mile and four-tenths north of East Liverpool, according to the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Officers said a northbound car driven by Robert L. Clewell, 22, of Lisbon R. D. 4 failed to make a curve and went off the east side of the highway. It then crossed over and went off the west side before striking a guardrail and going over an embankment.

Clewell, who was cited for speed in excess of road conditions, was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the left temple. Two passengers treated at the hospital were Denver Whitsett, 21, of Alliance, laceration of the scalp, and James Kovach, 23, of Lisbon R. D. 4, laceration of the lower left leg.

Johnson Trims Field

Humphrey Gains As V.P. Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's sweeping knock-out of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and others from the lineup of vice presidential possibilities focused speculation today on Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy as his probable choice for a running mate.

In an unprecedented action Thursday the President eliminated nearly all the major possibilities for the No. 2 spot — including Kennedy, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The consensus among many knowledgeable Democrats was that Johnson, calculating that he has established his own political image strongly, wants to win elective office without leaning on any Kennedy.

The feeling was that to eliminate any emotional surge for the attorney general, the President was willing to eliminate a whole lineup of possible candidates he never really had considered.

Among those who hit the dust, only Shriver, a Roman Catholic and a brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy, and McNamara had received the sort of presidential praise that pointed toward them as potential candidates.

U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, a two-time loser as Democratic standard bearer, was among those knocked out of consideration for second spot on the ticket to be chosen at the Democratic national convention which opens Aug. 24 in Atlantic City, N.J.

In his spray-gun action Thursday only six hours after telling a quickie news conference he had not decided on a running mate, Johnson included on his non-candidate list all cabinet members and those in government who have access to the White House for such gatherings.

One of those personally notified, who wasn't given a chance for the nomination in any event, was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Another who was accorded a personal "no, thanks" was Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Commenting on his action, Johnson said he had decided it would be inadvisable to pick as a running mate any member of the cabinet or those who have cabinet status.

Aides said Johnson felt that all of these men were working so hard in essential jobs that their endeavors would suffer if they were called upon to take on the burden of campaign roadwork.

An Associated Press poll of convention delegates was released, by coincidence, at the time of Johnson's announcement. It showed that Humphrey

'Slight' Says Kennedy Of His Chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy unloaded a major understatement Thursday with a single word.

A Brazilian visitor asked him of his prospects for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

"Slight," Kennedy said with a small smile.

The significance escaped those in the room. They were accustomed to throwaway answers to the question that had been asked of Kennedy countless times since his brother, President John F. Kennedy, was assassinated eight months ago.

Fifty-five minutes later, his message came through. President Johnson suddenly dropped Kennedy and others from his list of vice presidential possibilities.

Kennedy reportedly had received the news in person at the White House hours earlier. When it became public, Kennedy's future became more puzzling.

Craft Televises Lunar Surfaces Prior To Crash

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Spacecraft Ranger 7 televised the first close-up pictures of the moon today and they look "extremely good," scientists said.

Ranger 7 crashed into the moon at 6:25 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time after a historic three-day flight. During the last few minutes before impact its six cameras apparently worked just as planned.

"We have good pictures," Ranger project manager Harris M. Schurmeier told a news conference at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which made and guided the spacecraft.

"The light level was good and video signals were good and the first quick prints made from film exposed by signals transmitted from Ranger 7 look exceptionally good.

"I think the public will be able to distinguish quite a few details when the pictures are released.

"If the pictures are sharply contrasted—with light and shadow—we ought to be able to see something the size of a few meters, say the size of a Volkswagen."

Ranger 7's six cameras were programmed to return 4,000 still pictures made from 1,300 miles above the moon's surface right down to the moment of impact.

The first photographs, Schurmeier said, are expected to be released within 24 hours after a board of scientists studies them.

The last shots, he added, were taken a fraction of a second before impact and would cover an area of about 60 square feet.

Dr. Homer Newell, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the news conference that this was an historic occasion and that the laboratory had received congratulations from president Johnson for what Newell called "a textbook operation."

Ranger 7 smashed into the Sea of Clouds just below the equator on the left portion of the moon's lighted side. This is one of several vast plains on the moon surface, called seas because that's what they looked like to ancient astronomers.

It is in such an area that astronauts may land in a few years.

It was hoped today's photographs would show the kind of terrain they will encounter—whether it's rocky and jagged or dusty and smooth.

The first camera was turned on at 6:07 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time with the spacecraft 1,300 miles away. At 6:08, the Goldstone Tracking Station reported receiving picture signals from it.

Soon, signals were coming from all six cameras—two with wide-angle lenses and four with narrow-angle lenses.

It would be an indefinite time, however, before quality and content of the picture transmissions would be known.

The Soviets' Lunik III photographed the back side of the moon from 40,000 miles away in 1959, closest pictures until today.

Ranger 7 smashed into the Sea of Clouds just below the equator on the left side of the moon's lighted portion right on schedule at 6:25 a.m.

A great cheer went up from scientists and newsmen assembled at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which made and guided Ranger, at word of completion of the cliff-hanger mission.

It was the first success in a $200-million lunar investigation program that has seen 12 straight shots go awry. The latest, Ranger 6, was most heartbreaking because it looked perfect until the final seconds when cameras wouldn't go on.

Ranger 7's two wide-angle cameras started functioning on command 16 minutes and 40 seconds before impact at an altitude of about 13,000 miles.

Four narrow-angle cameras started transmitting three minutes later.

A spokesman said there was no interruption during the entire transmission as the 806-pound insect-shaped spacecraft streaked toward the moon at 5,800 miles an hour.

Tracking experts said the straight-line distance to the moon at the time of impact was 228,686 miles.

Ranger's path to the moon was curved and it took 67 hours, (Turn to MOON, Page 5)

History Vs. Privacy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two court actions have entangled heirs and historians of a controversial president in a battle pitting the rights of history against the rights of privacy.

A $1 million law suit by the heirs of President Warren G. Harding seeks to suppress Harding's love letters to a married woman—and a biographer and the president of the Ohio Historical Society have clashed verbally over a probate suit tying up use of the letters.

"The Ohio Historical Society instigated court action in probate court in Marion in order to get rid of these letters, which Fred J. Milligan, society president, considered an embarrassing acquisition," Francis Russell, the biographer, said Thursday in a Cleveland Plain Dealer interview. Russell made public parts of the letters a few weeks ago.

Milligan retorted: "This is an absolute falsehood. We were dealing with an estate. We went to Marion Probate Court to see if we had a right to the letters because the estate hadn't been settled. The judge issued an order that the letters belonged to the heirs. The judge ordered them sealed and turned over to an administrator."

The 108 love letters were written between 1905 and 1920 to Mrs. James (Carrie) Phillips, wife of a Marion department store owner.

Mrs. Phillips died in 1960.

Square in the middle of the dispute between Russell and Milligan is Kenneth W. Duckett, curator of manuscripts at the Ohio Historical Museum. He was among those sued here Monday for $1 million by George T. Harding III of nearby Worthington, the nephew of President

Ohioville Mother Due Asylum Confinement

Mrs. Mary Zlatovich, 25, of Ohioville, admitted slayer of four of her five children, was ordered confined today to Dixmont State Hospital in an order signed in Beaver County Court by Judge Morgan Sohn.

He accepted the recommendation of a sanity commission, which ruled July 22 that she was mentally unbalanced and should be committed.

The judge stipulated she will remain at Dixmont for treatment "until she is recovered or otherwise removed, and if she recovers will be returned to court for further disposition of her case."

She was arrested June 10 after killing the children as they slept following an all-night argument with her husband, Mitchell Zlatovich.

As Guests Of Weirton Steel

Newsman From District Tour Strategic Air Base

Representatives of district newspapers, television and radio stations toured the Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb., Thursday as guests of the Weirton Steel Co. George A. Shaw, publisher of The Review, and Paul H. Zehnder of the WOHI news staff were among those making the trip.

The group left the Greater Pittsburgh Airport Wednesday afternoon by Boeing Stratocruiser, arriving at the Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska after a four-hour flight, and returned home Thursday night.

The command post at Offutt is the nerve center of the SAC's global communications network. The visitors, during the tour, were informed that:

By picking up a red telephone, the senior SAC controller can speak directly to about 75 subordinate command posts spread across the northern hemisphere. Through this system, each SAC base receives notice of alerts—practice or real—from coded messages.

Another telephone, gold in color, gives the controller a direct line to the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington and to other major command headquarters.

Through a radio network called "Short Order", the command post can contact SAC tactical aircraft in flight over any part of the world. A principal purpose of this system is to pass the execution order ("Go Code") to the bomber force, if specifically ordered by the President.

The control room, one of the most impressive facilities in the underground command post, is 140 feet long, 39 feet wide and 21 feet high. Within 30 seconds, vital operational data can be taken from an original printed source and flashed on screens before the entire SAC battle staff.

Each of six screens is 16-by-16 feet and six different displays of information can be projected simultaneously to provide a wide range of vital operational information to the staff.

Offutt AFB, formerly known as Fort Crook, was for many years, the home of the 22d U.S. Infantry.

As of the end of October 1963, the total population of the base was 12,371 officers, airmen and civilians.

The total area of the base is 1,887 acres, exclusive of the Capehart housing area, which adds 464 acres.

Weirton Steel representatives on the trip were John A. Jones, James Chandler, Robert Rine, Paul Harris and Ted Varner.

Despair Continued

Move North Disillusions Migrants Of Appalachia

CHICAGO (AP) — For thousands of Southern Appalachian white persons a journey northward represents the hope of an end to poverty and deprivation.

But for many of the 25,000 migrants living in Chicago, the city has meant only continued despair. Uneducated, unskilled and unaccustomed to city ways, the migrants find the transition from backwood to urban setting almost impossible.

Part of President Johnson's antipoverty bill is aimed at correcting the economic conditions that drive the migrants northward. But the dislocated migrants also have become a welfare problem in Chicago, where they have settled in a five-mile-long, one-mile wide area on the North Side known as Uptown.

"One of the biggest problems for the migrant is exploitation," said Dewey W. Wood, director of the Chicago office of the Council of the Southern Mountains.

"The migrants pay $27 to $35 dollars a week rent for unbelievable apartments. Often four families (of six or seven persons each) share the same bathroom," Dewey said.

Exploitation, added to the higher cost of living in the North, often offsets extra wages the migrants may earn.

Wood says many of them would be better off at home in the "security of their cathedral mountains." But, he asks, "what more incentive to migrate would any of us need if our cash income for an entire 12 months was $600?"

Torn between the better jobs of the North and the yearning for the hills of West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, the migrants often pack up and go south again, only to return the next week.

"Back home," Wood said, "they can squat on their haunches for hours on the porch of the County court house, but as soon as a number of them congregate on a corner here, they're picked up for loitering."

Jury Handed Riot Reports At Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A detailed report, analyzing the causes of last weekend's rioting in Rochester, today was in the hands of a grand jury investigating the racial strife.

The voluminous police report was compiled by the Police Bureau's internal inspection division and is based on testimony gathered from scores of witnesses to the violence.

The grand jury reportedly is laying the groundwork for felony charges of riot and inciting a riot. More than 200 persons are expected to be indicted.

The probe entered its fifth day today and was seen continuing through next week.

Four other persons died and about 350 were injured in the weekend melee.

Police Chief William Lombard Thursday commended his police officers for their conduct, courage and what he described as "restraint in the face of the most severe provocations on the part of the mob."

Several hundred city and state police—with National Guard troops standing by to help if needed—continued to patrol the Negro sections where violence flared out of control.

Robbery Suspect Awaits Hearing

BEAVER — The New York City man identified as one of the two holdup suspects who got $300 in a robbery at Mount's Esso service station in Beaver July 22 was officially charged Thursday with armed robbery by Squire Raymond Edge of Allegheny.

The Chippewa Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said Ray Anthony Kelly, 25, alias Dennis St. John, was returned to the Beaver County Jail with no bond set.

State Police added that no definite date for Kelly's hearing had been set but he is to be arraigned in a few days.

Donald G. Mount, service station owner, identified Kelly who was already in the County Jail after he had been arrested along with three other men about a week ago on suspicion of the robbery and several crimes in the east.

Mount said Kelly and a companion entered the station just as he was closing, pulled a .32-caliber pistol and cleaned out the cash drawer.

Libel Suit Award Cut By $300,000

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Charles Murray Thursday reduced former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker's jury award in his libel suit against The Associated Press from $800,000 to $500,000.

The judge also ruled that The AP was not actuated by malice in writing about Walker's activities on the University of Mississippi campus. The jury said The Associated Press was.

Walker filed the suit in connection with AP accounts of his activities on the Ole Miss campus during enrollment of Negro James Meredith Sept. 30, 1962.

The jury in June said Walker should be given $500,000 for actual damages and $300,000 for exemplary or punitive damages.

Since Judge Murray said no malice existed, he threw out the jury award of $300,000 for exemplary damages.

Attorney J. A. Gooch, who represented The Associated Press, said he would have no comment until after reading Judge Murray's decision.

A major general in the Army is of higher rank than a rear admiral in the Navy.

New Date Set In 2 Hearings

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted continuances until Monday, Aug. 31, in the cases of two motorists cited after traffic mishaps in mid-July.

John R. Stewart, 30, of 410½ Walnut St. faces charges of illegal registration and failure to yield the right-of-way in connection with a collision July 18 at the junction of the East Liverpool - Wellsville "super-road" and Kountz Ave.

The State Highway Patrol alleged Stewart drove his car off Kountz Ave. and was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Walter Ring Jr., 57, of Steubenville. Four were injured, including Stewart.

Stewart previously pleaded guilty to the illegal registration charge and not guilty on the right-of-way count. Sentencing on the registration charge also is due Aug. 31, the judge said.

The second continued case involves Willis Smith Jr. of Richardson Ave., cited July 13 on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way to oncoming traffic when making a left turn.

He was cited after a two-way crash at the junction of Broadway and E. 3rd St.

was a 3-to-2 choice for vice president. He got 341 first choice votes. The attorney general, in second place, got 230.

Humphrey and McCarthy were searching their personalities to try to determine if they could fill Johnson's requirements that his running mate be attractive, prudent, progressive with a compassionate consideration for the people's welfare and still be welcomed into every state of the Union.

Humphrey has been anathema to many in the South because of his strong stand on civil rights, but has softened that opposition in recent years.

McCarthy, just as liberal as Humphrey, has not made much noise on major issues. But he is a Roman Catholic and the Republicans picked one of his faith for second place in naming Rep. William E. Miller of New York as their vice presidential candidate.

Humphrey issued a statement in which he said that "the matter of selection of a Democratic vice presidential candidate is in the hands of the President."

McCarthy said Johnson's announcement "obviously eliminates people who are in the cabinet and other offices he included." But McCarthy said the qualifications of "prudence and experience and acceptability" the President laid down "still apply to a very large number of people, both in and out of politics."

Kennedy said it was the President's responsibility to decide on his running mate.

He added: "It is in the interest of all of us who were associated with President Kennedy to continue the efforts to advance the programs and ideals to which he devoted his life and which President Johnson is carrying forward."

Johnson's associates cautioned against interpretations of the President's actions as an effort to stop Kennedy.

But nowhere was there keyed into any of this the now established report that Mrs. John F. Kennedy plans to attend the Atlantic City convention and that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., sent word to his state's delegation that he favored his brother, the attorney general, for second place on the ticket.

Demand And Supply Of Security

The Social Security revisions that met with 288-8 approval in the House of Representatives Wednesday are expected to go thumping through the Senate with the same lopsided ratio of approval.

Increased payments to Social Security beneficiaries are good election year politics. They are good public practice in any government that assumes responsibility for a Social Security program.

It is interesting now, nearly 30 years after Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the first social security bill in midsummer 1935, to remember that perpetual widening of coverage and deepening of benefits had been demanded from the beginning.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT made a public declaration to this effect in 1938, when the Social Security Act was still in its experimental stage. "We should be constantly seeking to perfect and strengthen it in the light of our accumulating experience and growing appreciation of social needs," he said.

Though health insurance still has not been incorporated in the Social Security system, it was pushed strongly in the '30s. It was forecast by backers of the original legislation that social insurance against the hazards of sickness would be the next step.

It was predicted by opponents of the law that politics would dictate ever-larger benefits payable and that these would outstrip Social Security reserves. But the reserves, themselves, were doomed for drastic revision. From the beginning, critics of the reserve fund device had insisted that it be discarded in favor of a pay-as-you-go policy.

ALL PREDICTIONS have been justified.

Covering The Ground

The ninth largest state in the Union is Wyoming, though it is 48th in population. This confronts its lone representative in the U.S. House of Representatives with a peculiar problem. He must represent all the people of Wyoming without being able to get around to them at campaign time to listen to their complaints.

He cannot see them, and they cannot possibly hope to see him in the year-around contacts that mean so much to representative government. Something like this, on a small scale, is going to occur when Ohio is reapportioned according to population, instead of geography.

A reapportionment plan proposed by the Governmental Research Institute of Cleveland has some members of the House of Representatives representing as Social Security is here to stay, and so are the things that go with it — election-year improvements in benefits, ever-rising taxes and a clamor for more of the former and less of the latter.

The original question still has not been answered — whether any government that embraces a welfare-state policy can collect money as fast as it will want to disburse it.

Playing Ball!

East Liverpool's banner has been hoisted proudly over out-of-town baseball diamonds the last several days thanks to the brilliant and enthusiastic play of a group of youngsters representing teams from the city in various tournaments.

Our Little Leaguers, Pony Leaguers and Hot Stove Leaguers already have advanced in tournament competition and our Colt Leaguers will swing into action today.

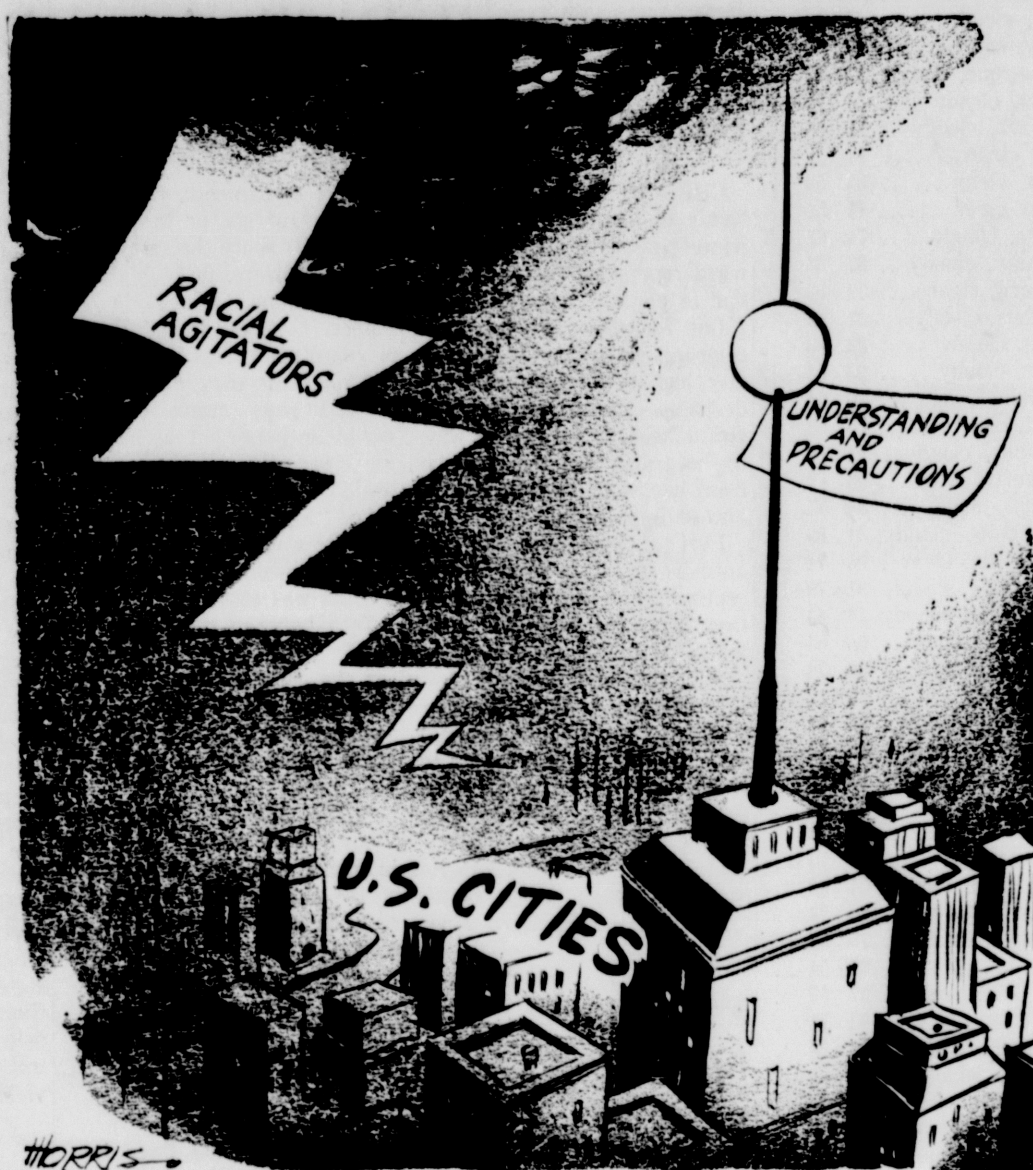

All but the Colt Leaguers are on foreign fields. They are staying at home to play host to the first Colt regional tournament ever held here.

East Liverpool is proud to be the scene of the Colt League action and extends a warm welcome to the visiting players and fans who will be on hand for the tourney. We're more than glad to have you with us and trust you will find us good hosts.

Of course, we can't help but be a little selfish about the whole thing. While we hope the visiting teams play outstanding ball, we would like to see our boys play even a little bit better.

The best of luck to our Colt Leaguers and to all the other teams representing East Liverpool as they continue the tournament wars.

Americans Lend A Hand In Nigeria

By Victor Riesel

IBADAN, NIGERIA
The "white man's graveyard," they once called huge areas in this country. Now some still talk of it as the "white man's hospital." Let those who write about "ugly Americans" come to this nation, not only to the big cities such as this one or Lagos, but to the outlying districts, as well. Let the formulators of the phrase "ugly Americans" follow scores of sacrificing Americans into the malaria swamp regions or into the tsetse fly country where the pestilence and "sleeping sickness" carriers breed on millions of bushes.

I have passed alongside some of the mangrove swamps and talked with men who teach the farmers how to cut down the bushes on which the tsetse fly hangs upside down, breeding by the millions, and swarming in on cattle and even humans.

That terrain is ugly, not the Americans who have come here to help the most congested and freedom-loving nation in Africa smash through the thousand-year-old tradition barrier.

THIS IS A LAND of 45 million people, of whom only two million are in a money economy and in which 80 per cent are illiterate.

This is a nation, reaching its hands and heart out to the Western democracies, which ranges from the Emir's domain centering around Kano in the north to juju chiefs in the south, and from skyscrapers in Lagos and the ultra-modern university here in Ibadan to the tsetse fly country on which it borders.

This means a range from the oriental-type court of the Emir, replete with men in the armor of King Arthur's court, to electronic computers. When an Emir is enthroned the pageantry outdoes Hollywood.

Two thousand horsemen charge at furious pace. Men in mail-armor strut about. Lancers exhibit ancient skills such as picking up dime-sized objects while mounted on swiftly racing horses.

Subjects crawl on their stomachs to approach the Emir. Yet he goes on television and radio and tells his people of their rights and is sincerely attempting to bring them out of the 11th century.

HELPING HIM is our government through the Agency for International Development (AID), which has a Teacher Training College in the Emir's capital at Kano.

It was to us that Nigeria's president, Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe turned for help in building a national higher education system to turn out teachers, technicians and agronomists. Too many young Nigerians now are abroad studying to become lawyers so they can become politicians when they return home.

We helped. It was not easy for the Americans who came — especially those from Michigan State University who built a completely new University of Nigeria out of the mud of some areas and the dust of others.

These American teachers went to the isolated villages of Nsukka and Enugu. When they began building the main campus at Nsukka there were few streets, no electricity, meagre water supplies and merely a collection of mud-block buildings and bamboo sheds — also, considerable disease.

There was not much more at Enugu, the second "campus" site, where there is at least one modern hotel today.

AT NSUKKA there is still horrible heat, throat-cracking dust, little air conditioning, and the only facilities for recreation are the cement tennis courts which bake in the tropical sun, a makeshift faculty club for makeshift drinks and an infrequent 16 millimeter film.

Occasionally things go rough. Once in 1962 the students, coming from many tribes, menaced the faculty. Vice-Chancellor George Johnson of Michigan State, on loan, called in the riot police.

Here in Ibadan during the general strike workers at the university threatened some geology students who were taking an exam on rocks. The students drove off the strikers with a barrage of the stones and then went out into the yard to collect the pieces, reassemble them and continue with the test.

Professors from other universities have interrupted their careers to help.

THEY HAVE come from the University of Wisconsin, New York University, Ohio University, UCLA, Western Michigan and others from Florida and North Carolina colleges.

Thus Nigeria, dissatisfied with the British system of building an elite of a few scholars, has been able to create with our help five universities in four years.

It's help well deserved. This is a nation dedicated to free speech, free government and free enterprise. Here there is little of the talk which one hears all through Africa of a strong man, or a one-party system or socialism.

This government, in addition to the help our government is giving it through a commitment of $225 million in the next few years, needs an additional $90 million a year in private investments. It deserves it, for it is the fertile ground of freedom in a troubled continent.

Spiritual Guidance Needed

By David Lawrence

Another Critical Look At The Rights Issue

The racial problem in America isn't going to be solved by any laws or court decrees or by government handouts of money. Delay in ameliorating the whole situation will be prolonged, largely because the true nature of the conflict is not generally understood.

Government David Lawrence can improve the economic lot of some layers of the population but it cannot help those who are indolent or incompetent. Nor can government abolish discrimination or a sense of inferiority merely by decreeing that there shall be equality.

Not many years ago a Negro poet of prominence wrote to this effect: "We don't really want to be just 'equal' — we want to be white." Yet assimilation of the races has proceeded very slowly throughout the world. Many of the better-educated Negroes in America have achieved a high status in their communities, but even they are not free from the barbs of discrimination under certain circumstances.

Only those human beings of any color or race or creed who have suffered the pangs of bitterness that arise when discrimination confronts them can understand what is at the bottom of the whole racial conflict today. It's not the problem of any one country.

The London Daily Telegraph on Monday of this week had a big headline on its front page about the riots in Rochester — a community which, by the way, has done much in recent years to advance the cause of the Negro in employment and in community life.

THE TELEGRAPH said editorially:

"It is a salutary coincidence that racial rioting in Singapore should have been taking place at the same time as the outbreaks in New York State and City. In British Guiana, too, political rivalry has become crystallized as a clash between Indian and Negro.

"All this violence, in widely differing circumstances, is a manifestation of tribal animosity that survives even in the most advanced societies: Mistrust of the stranger, however thoroughly established, as long as he can be identified by the color of his skin or some other outward characteristic. Of course, this produces a reaction by the 'strangers,' the more violent as they begin to claim their rights and to feel their strength. That is what is happening now in the United States, although in Rochester as in Harlem there has been a large injection of senseless hooligan-violence, without any motivation of conscious social protest.

"This element will be found in any such situation — as well as more sinister figures provoking of exploiting the trouble. Liberal ordinances are not, by themselves, an effective prophylactic. The civil rights only just won for the American South are already enjoyed by the Negroes who have been rioting in New York City and state.

"Remembering Nottingham and Nottingham, we in Britain cannot claim to be free from color prejudice. It is a challenge to the liberal outlook everywhere — but a challenge to the head no less than to the heart.

"Prejudice cannot be legislated away. The sensible thing, therefore, is to admit its existence and take measures to avoid its violent manifestation."

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? A change in human nature? And how can this be accomplished? Unfortunately, most of the churches have muffed the ball.

Sincerely desirous of achieving civil rights for all, the big church organizations have mistakenly chosen to operate by political methods and demonstrations. This has served in many cases only to intensify the situation. For preachers to argue that civil disobedience is justified helps to encourage those who would resort to violence.

Negro churchmen themselves have faced a difficult conflict. They have been denounced by their parishioners for failing to take any aggressive stand in the controversy. James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said on the TV program "Face the Nation" last Sunday:

"The Negro community in the South is centered around the Negro church, and this it is considerably easier to maintain the non-violent emphasis than in the North. Now, the word 'non-violence' in Harlem is a very bad word indeed.

"It's possible to point out that we will be shot down, that we are outnumbered, and thus we cannot effectively fight back with violence.

"But it is impossible if he speaks of turning the other cheek."

PLAINLY, there is much to be done by preachers of every creed to persuade people everywhere that to rely on the divine spirit for guidance is a prerequisite to the winning of justice from other citizens. While physical force may for the moment satisfy passions of anger, it does not solve anything. Church men and spiritually minded laymen have the principal mission in the turbulent society of our day—and it's going to require a long time and plenty of patience to get results.

A Suit For Humphrey

By James Marlow

The suit President Johnson tailored for his vice presidential running mate, although he hasn't named his choice yet, would fit Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota very neatly.

The 53-year-old Humphrey had been mentioned, along with others, as a vice presidential possibility. But by two successive actions Thursday Johnson seemed to narrow the choice down pretty close to Humphrey.

At a news conference Johnson listed the qualifications for a vice presidential candidate to be named by the Democratic convention late in August. He said he should be a "man that is experienced in foreign relations and domestic affairs."

Humphrey, with 15 years in the Senate, is experienced in both fields.

He has been a very active member of the Foreign Relations Committee since 1953; has traveled Europe and Latin America; had an eight-hour interview with Premier Khrushchev in 1958 and gave one of the first, if not the first, insights into the Russian-Chinese split that is now wide open; in 1957 suggested the possibility of an American-Russian nuclear test ban treaty which the Senate made a reality in 1963; and was one of the originators of the idea of a Peace Corps which became a fact under President Kennedy.

In domestic affairs Humphrey has fathered or supported many pieces of legislation but perhaps his most memorable achievement was as the principal manager of Johnson's civil rights bill which Congress passed this month.

Johnson further said: "I would like for him (the vice presidential candidate) to be a man of the people who felt a compassionate concern for their welfare and who enjoyed public service and was dedicated to it."

The first bill Humphrey introduced after arriving in the Senate in 1949 was one to provide hospital care for the elderly through Social Security. He offered it in each succeeding Congress until this became a major program, still unrealized, of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

And no one enjoys public service more than the bouncy, energetic, and practically indefatigable Humphrey, a friendly man well liked by his fellow senators.

And Johnson added this: "I would like for (the vice president) to be attractive, prudent, and progressive."

Humphrey's supporters, particularly liberals, would say he filled those requirements. And Johnson added this: "I would like him to be one who would work cooperatively with the Congress and with the Cabinet and with the President. I would expect him to be one that would meet with overwhelming approval of the delegates."

The sentiment of the delegates, under the stress of the convention, is impossible to predict. But Thursday The Associated Press made public a poll of the delegates on their vice presidential preference. It showed Humphrey the No. 1 choice, and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy No. 2.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill: What with all the evidence of the health hazards in the use of tobacco, it appears likely the famous smoke-filled rooms of national political conventions will go the way of the dodo, bustle and snuff box.

Sports broadcasters say baseball is a game of inches. If the hit had been a few inches closer, the fielder could have handled it. If the hit had been a few inches this way or that, it would have been fair instead of foul, and so on and on.

Okay, Twill, just name me a sport that is not a matter of inches. Pole-vaulting is won by fractions of inches. Shot-putting is won by inches. The javelin throw is won by inches. Tennis is won by inches. Basketball is determined by how many inches the ball misses a rebounder or the basket. And football depends on how many inches the ball is carried to the goal line, a tackler misses a runner or a pass receiver misses a catch. Driving a car safely is a matter of inches, too.

According to news stories it is equally dangerous for outsiders in both Harlem and Mississippi. One of them should try to set an example for the other in non-violence and obeying the law. But the way things are going it will never happen. But you know, I never believe in using the word "never." It is a case of where two wrongs do not make a right.

In the same vein, we now see the phenomenon of Abraham Lincoln's party trying to bring the South into the fold by political means rather than the violent means of the Civil War.

Purely Personal

Two things about politics intrigue me especially—the things everybody talks about and nobody knows about, like a man's inner thoughts, and the things everybody knows about and nobody talks about, like undercover bids for racial, ethnic and religious support.

I do not understand the psychology that causes Parisians to leave their city en masse on Aug. 1 for month-long vacations but I approve of any arrangement that makes all vacationers go away at the same time. Staggered vacations are grossly inefficient.

I wish an insurance company would crank up a computer and prove my belief that the most dangerous thing people do is "go swimming"—that more victims are claimed by drowning in proportion to the number exposed to this risk than by any other hazard.

I feel sorry for people who never see the harvest in this bountiful land, because they never comprehend that everything we do starts with the beneficence of nature.

It makes me heavy-hearted when outbursts of race violence are blamed on Communist agitators. This is as far-fetched as blaming violence in the jungle on the buzzards that show up to take advantage of the consequences.

Mice have showed up in our lean-to in Rosy Fingert Dawn, but the situation is under control. In one night they ate the poisoned seeds, dipped into the anti-coagulant freely and ate the bait off the traps. We make it easy. Later, we tie on the bait with a silk thread, if there still are survivors after wolfing down all the other stuff.

I feel sorry for my fellow humans who wonder when they complain about it if they aren't wishing for an impossible world. Noise is part of life.

Deaths and Funerals

Death Claims
F. R. Koerber

Frederick R. Koerber, 77, a retired employee of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., died this morning at 6:20 at City Hospital, following a lingering illness.

He had been a patient at the Salineville Town and Country Nursing Home and resided in the Midland and Ohio View area from 1919 to 1959. He was a power house operator at the Midland plant where he worked for 40 years. He retired in 1959.

He was a former assistant chief and life member of the Midland volunteer fire department and organizer, first chief and president of the Industry volunteer fire department.

He also served as justice of the peace of Ohio View for many years. He was a member of the Ohio View Lutheran Church, a member and past master of Glasgow Masonic Lodge 485 of Midland, a former member of Troop H of the First Cavalry of the Pennsylvania National Guard, and a member of the Beaver County Firemen's Relief Association.

Arthur Frontz

Arthur E. Frontz, 52, of LaCroft Ave., LaCroft, took his own life by hanging in the cellar of his home late Thursday night or early today, police reported.

His body was discovered at approximately 12:53 this morning by his brother, Patrolman Howard Frontz. Patrolman Frontz said he received several telephone calls from his brother as he was preparing to report for duty on the midnight shift at headquarters. After arriving at the station, he obtained permission from Lt. Clyde W. Boso, officer in charge, to drive a couple of blocks outside the city to find if his brother was all right. Lt. Boso accompanied the patrolman and remained in the cruiser while he went into his brother's home.

In a few minutes, Officer Frontz ran outside and reported his brother had hanged himself. Lt. Boso summoned an ambulance and a fire department respirator and later notified Dr. Roy C. Costello, deputy county coroner. A report also was given to the sheriff's office.

A Marine Corps veteran in World War II, Mr. Frontz was born in Wellsville Oct. 7, 1911, to the late W. Edward Frontz and Rose Springer Frontz, and resided in the vicinity his lifetime.

He was a turn foreman in the cold strip department of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. where he had been employed since 1951.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sue Nease Frontz; two daughters, Mrs. Sondra Stephens of Verona, Ky., and Mrs. Arlene Bickle of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Lawrence Howell of East Liverpool; three other brothers, William E. Frontz and James D. Frontz of East Liverpool, and Charles L. Frontz of Falls Church, Va., and two grandchildren.

Trio Charged
With Forging
State Checks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus detectives and Ohio Highway Patrol officers Thursday night arrested three men in connection with the forgery of faulty checks stolen from the state auditor's data processing center here.

They said one of the men, Joseph Morgan Daniels Sr., 44, of Columbus, admitted cashing 11 checks and would be charged with forgery. The other two men, implicated by Daniels, denied any part in the operation, police said.

A total of 1,576 incorrectly key-punched, unsigned checks valued at $437,806 disappeared from the state office before they were destroyed in accordance with office regulations.

By Thursday afternoon, 23 checks totaling more than $3,000 had turned up cashed. Meanwhile, the state auditor's office announced that the 22-year-old employee who should have destroyed the faulty checks had been fired. He was not identified.

Each of the checks contained the amount, but anyone cashing them had to enter the name of the payee, State Auditor Roger W. Tracy's signature and the endorsing signature.

Police said Daniels, who has served two prison terms for forgery, admitted cashing some of the checks but apparently had nothing to do with the theft of them. They said a photograph automatically taken of Daniels as he cashed one of the checks led to his arrest.

35 minutes to make the 243,665-mile flight.

Ranger 7 was launched Tuesday morning from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Shortly after impact, Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the laboratory, broadcast over the intercom at the 4,000-man facility: "My thanks to all for a job well done."

The laboratory received severe criticism after the failure of Ranger 6. Both the Ranger 7 space vehicle and the laboratory's administrative setup received an overhaul. There were reports of further action if Ranger 7 failed.

The spacecraft's two wide-angle cameras were programmed to shoot 160 pictures, each at intervals of 2 1/2 seconds; one covering an area 180,000 square miles, the other an area of 19,000 square miles.

The four narrow-angle cameras were to photograph areas of 12,500 square miles and 1,200 square miles, slightly overlapping within the area covered by the wide-angle cameras.

Just before impact one of the wide-angle cameras with a 25-mm lens was to have recorded an area of 3 1/2 square miles. The other, with a 75mm lens, had less than half a square mile to cover.

The narrow-angle cameras were expected to distinguish objects as small as an automobile just before impact. Their last pictures were to cover areas ranging from 4,350 square feet to 37,500 square feet.

Telescopes on earth have been able to distinguish no objects smaller than a quarter-mile wide. Such an object would be the size of a large aircraft carrier.

Ranger 7, descending toward the moon bottom first, was slightly tilted so the cameras could shoot through a small door near the tip of its cone-shaped body.

Atmospheric conditions prevent telescopes on earth from distinguishing objects less than a quarter-mile in diameter.

The closest pictures made in the past ranged 37,000 to 43,000 miles from the moon. These photographs were taken by the Soviet Union's Lunik III, which focused on the dark side of the moon Oct. 7, 1959.

With the pictures expected from Ranger, designers of the future Apollo moon craft hoped to determine whether American astronauts would have to land on a smooth or rugged surface.

Twelve previous U.S. probes of the moon have failed — six of them in the $200 million Ranger program.

GOP Slates Appalachian Bill Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Committee has approved a $1-billion revised version of President Johnson's Appalachia program and plans to ask the rules committee next week to schedule it for floor debate.

Republicans who fought the 11-state aid program in committee served notice after Thursday night's action they would fight the proposal on the House floor.

The bill would aid West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The program, scheduled to run until June 30, 1970, would provide an $840-million highway program for the 11-state area and $237.2 million during the first two years for public works, mine restoration and vocational education.

Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who heads an Appalachia study group, said after the committee action: "I am most encouraged and most hopeful that the bill will pass Congress this year."

Committee approval in its fifth closed-door session on the bill, came on a voice vote. Rep. William C. Cramer of Florida, the committee's second-ranking Republican, said no effort was made by the committee to improve the bill.

"I can't imagine why anybody would want to vote for discriminatory legislation like this," he said.

The revised bill, introduced July 20, increased the highway program from $645 million, broadened aid in coal mining regions and eliminated the Appalachian Development Corporation proposed in the original bill.

It also added six counties in South Carolina and nine in Ohio and Kentucky to those who will get the aid.

City Boy Scout Troop To Camp With Group

Four area Boy Scout troops, including one from East Liverpool, along with a Mahoning County troop, will camp for the seventh and last week of summer camping of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council beginning Sunday noon at Camp Twin Spruce on Leesville Lake, according to Bennett Taylor, executive director of the council. Troops attending with about 65 boys include:

Troop 1 — Lisbon St. George Catholic Church; Troop 2 — Salem Methodist Church; Troop 31 — East Liverpool Orchard Grove Methodist Church, a Provisional Troop for all those who couldn't go previously when their units camped, and Troop 25 of Canfield.

Although this is the final week of Boy Scout camping, over 50 Camp Fire Girls will use the camp the eighth week, Taylor said.

83rd Division Unit

Reunion In Cleveland
The 332nd Regiment of the famed 83rd Division of World War I will hold a reunion Sept. 5-6 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Cleveland.

Several hundred area men served in the unit known as the Lion of St. Mark. They served in Italy and fought the Austrians in the Alps, according to H. E. Taylor, adjutant of American Legion Post 4.

He said anyone desiring information about the reunion may contact him.

The average human tongue, at rest, is about three and a half inches long.

city of the point where a temporary connection now links the first stage of the Freeway with outer Dresden Ave.

ATTENDING THE lunch program will be representatives of the highway committee and officers and members of the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce; Highway Department officials; a representative of the contractor; members of the Board of Directors of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Highway Association; Mayor Merrill D. Hall; Commissioners Walter A. Hunston, Galen Greenisen and James Boyd; County Engineer Charles O. Snyder and State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel.

The committee said other interested persons will be able to make reservations for the luncheon by contacting the Chamber office.

Earl Nelson, deputy director, will head the delegation from the Division 11 Highway Department office in New Philadelphia.

THE INBOUND LANES of the second freeway stage have been in use since late 1963. But use of the outbound lanes was delayed until the contractor completed so-called "corrective work" required by the Highway Department.

Work on the second area stage of the Freeway was launched in the fall of 1962 by Great Lakes Construction under a $2,796,405 contract.

Except for the "corrective" work specified by the state, the work on the project virtually was completed late in 1963. No ceremony was held to mark the opening of the two inbound lanes.

When the outbound lanes are opened, they officially will become the path of Routes 7 and 30 through the California Hollow section and outer Dresden Ave. will revert to the county highway system.

County Heads Clear Memorial Day Costs

An "audiophile" is one who is enthusiastic about sound, especially music from high fidelity broadcasts or recordings.

Man Receives Year In Jail

A city man was sentenced to a total of a year in the County Jail on two separate charges at a hearing Thursday before County Court Judge Herbert Artman at East Palestine.

Franklin Boyd was fined $200 and costs and given six-month sentences each on charges of assault and indecent exposure.

He was arrested after an incident at Grimms Bridge in which authorities said he halted two cars on the bridge and struck one man. The assault charge was filed by Charles Bailey of East Liverpool and the exposure charge by Paul Kampfer of Rogers.

Another city man was bound over to the Grand Jury on a charge of threatening a defendant in an action. Holly Pinkerton was charged with threatening a neighbor with a shotgun over a boundary dispute. His bond was set at $500. The charge was filed by Paul P. Milhoan of the Elkton Rd.

In other hearings Forrest Eugene Newkirk of Lisbon R. D. 3 was fined $15 and costs for reckless operation, Willard Clyde Davis of Substation Rd., $15 and costs for false registration, Ronald E. Boyd of Rogers R. D. 1, $15 and costs for driving left of center, and Charles Hoppel of R. D. 2, $15 and costs for improper backing. In each case $10 of the fine was suspended if the defendant attends traffic school.

Lawrence L. Gibson, 873 Main St., East Palestine, was fined $15 and costs for driving without a muffler.

George K. House of Lisbon was fined $5 and costs for failure to file a registration and $15 and costs for driving without a muffler. Of this, $10 was suspended on the condition he attend the school.

A hearing for J. N. Show of Shadyside Ave. on an assault charge was continued to Thursday at 1 p.m.

Bliss Slated To Retain Ohio GOP Leadership

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican state chairman, Ray Bliss of Akron, is going to stay on indefinitely as party chief and play a key role in Sen. Barry Goldwater's Ohio campaign for the presidency.

Bliss showed newsmen a telegram Thursday from Goldwater which said that the campaign for the Republican presidential nominee "will be conducted in Ohio through the Republican State Central Committee."

The telegram also said all fund-raising efforts and any citizens' campaign program would be coordinated under the direction of Bliss.

Bliss made his statement following a meeting of the Republican State Finance Committee.

Suit

Harding. George Harding's attorneys say the property rights to publication of letters always rests in the heirs of the writer.

Common Pleas Court immediately issued a temporary order against Duckett, Russell, the American Heritage Publishing Co. in New York and the Cleveland office of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., stopping them from publishing, producing, copying or exhibiting the letters.

Byron E. Ford, attorney for George Harding, said Russell and Duckett had microfilmed the letters last fall without telling the Historical Society of their contents.

"My clients would like to destroy the letters, but I don't think that will happen," Ford said. "They want to suppress them. George Harding has indicated he will be willing to have the letters turned over to the Historical Society, provided the family can be protected against printing lurid details."

That is the point of the law suit, not the million dollar damages asked.

The original letters meanwhile are in a bank vault in Marion, under the custody of probate court, and the administrator of Mrs. Phillips' estate. Marion is the home town of both Harding and Mrs. Phillips.

The guardian of Mrs. Phillips before her death in 1960, Donald Williamson, Marion attorney, stumbled on the shoe box filled with letters in 1956, while having Mrs. Phillips' home searched for diamonds. No diamonds were found but estimates of the value of these letters to collectors range from $30,000 to far above $100,000, even without publication rights.

Last October Russell was in Marion checking a reference in a Harding biography to Mrs. Phillips, and Williamson permitted him to read some of the letters.

"You have dynamite here," Russell told Williamson, the attorney said.

Williamson replied: "I realize that."

Russell suggested giving the letters to the Ohio Historical Society, and Williamson did.

Russell said the letters came in when 50,000 documents from the Harding archives were arriving at the society, and for that reason the letters were put aside until April. It was then that the society decided to let the court determine if it had a right to the documents. But in the meantime, according to the Harding petition, Russell and Duckett had copied the letters.

Russell said the Harding letters are vital to an understanding of the late president's personality and to suppress them would be to suppress history.

Farm Tractor Injures Man

An area man ran over by a tractor shortly before noon Thursday was in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital, where nine other persons were treated.

James May, 46, of Lisbon R. D. suffered injuries of the lower back and left leg when the farm vehicle passed over him as he was working beneath it. He had asked his wife to manipulate one of the controls and she accidentally caused it to move.

Changes At Monongahela Power Utility Fills Two Posts

JAMES ASHCRAFT

Raymond E. (Ginger) Wade, Panhandle division superintendent of transmission and distribution for the Monongahela Power Co., will retire from active service Saturday after 44 years with the utility firm.

W. F. Wilharm, division manager, said that Wade's post will be filled by James W. Ashcraft, assistant superintendent, and Charles Whitaker, who will fill the vacancy created by Ashcraft's advancement.

ASHCRAFT has been a member of the division staff since 1955, coming to Wellsville, then the division headquarters, as division engineer. In December 1959, he advanced to assistant superintendent of transmission and distribution.

Whitaker has been with Monongahela since 1948 and in the Panhandle division since 1954. He is presently foreman of substations and meters.

Walker said the lug nuts on another rear wheel were loose, as though the thief was preparing to take it also when he was frightened away.

He said the tire was removed sometime between 10 p. m. Wednesday and 9:30 a. m. yesterday while the auto was parked in a lot at Fire Alley and Long Alley. Walker said a neighbor, John Nation, noted the theft and advised him.

Jefferson Car Crash Hurts 8

STUEBENVILLE — Six members of a California family and two Pittsburgh men were hospitalized with injuries suffered in a head-on auto collision at 2:15 a. m. today on Route 22 just east of the Jefferson-Harrison County line.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said William Allen, 25, of Pittsburgh was driving east when he rounded a sharp curve and went left of center, colliding head-on with a west-bound auto driven by Andrew M. Kubanda, 37, of San Diego.

After the impact, Allen's car spun around, went over an embankment and caught fire. A passing motorist extinguished the blaze.

Federal Aid Due On Coal Problem In West Virginia

WASHINGTON — West Virginia Gov. W. W. Barron said here Thursday federal officials have promised to help solve a problem facing his state's coal industry.

Barron was in Washington for a meeting with Christian A. Herter, President Johnson's trade representative. They discussed proposed limitations by West Germany on coal imported from the United States.

The West German government presently accepts five million tons of American coal a year duty free. The new plan would allow a blanket 18 million ton quota of coal imports over the next three years, open to free bidding.

Barron said this might permit another nation to undersell American producers and therefore close the German market to the United States.

The West Virginians asked Herter to work to keep Germany's duties at present levels and without any quotas or trade restrictions.

In addition to Barron, West Virginia's Sens. Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph attended the meeting.

15 Beauties Gain Semi-Finals For Universe Crown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Beauty queens from 15 nations—semifinalists in the Miss Universe pageant—rehearsed and gathered their hopes today for Saturday night's finals, when one will be named the most beautiful girl in the world.

The semifinalists were chosen Thursday night in a ceremony marred by the hysterical collapse backstage of Edna Park, Miss Nigeria, who cried uncontrollably for nearly 30 minutes after failing to make the cut.

Miss Park, 20, with flashing black eyes, walked from the stage seconds after the semifinalists were announced and collapsed in tears behind the curtains, unseen by a convention hall audience of thousands. "No, no," she sobbed, pounding her fists on the rough wood floor.

Heartbroken, she resisted efforts of a newsmen and pageant hostess to prop her into a sitting position. And after several agonizing minutes, was carried kicking and screaming to a dressing room by a policeman and contest official.

The semifinalists were: Miss Argentina, Maria Amelia Ramirez; Miss Bolivia, Olga del Carpio Oropeza; Miss Brazil, Angela Vasconcelos; Miss England, Brenda Blackler; Miss Finland, Sirpa Wallenius.

Miss France, Edith Noel; Miss Greece, Kiriaki Tsopel; Miss Israel, Ronit Rinat; Miss Italy, Emanuela Stramano.

Miss Norway, Jorunn Nystedt; Miss Paraguay, Miriam R. Brugada; Miss Republic of China, Lana Yi Yu; Miss Sweden, Ziv Marta Aberg; Miss USA, Bobbi Johnson; and Miss Venezuela, Mercedes Revenga.

Vocational Training School Finally Opens

A resident training center aimed at preparing 660 Ohio boys each year for good jobs in business and industry, including a number from East Liverpool, officially opened today after much delay at the Vienna Air Force Base near Youngstown.

Students of the Mahoning Valley Vocational School are to be housed and trained in nine buildings leased from the Air Force. Opening was set June 1 originally, but was delayed five times. Testing, counseling and orientation of the first class was to start today, and actual classes probably Monday.

The final delay occurred Wednesday on a question of whether the Niles Local School District could legally participate in operation of a statewide program. This was settled Thursday by deciding to operate the school as a non-profit private educational institution under contract with state education officials.

Ex-Lisbon Man Given Term In Penitentiary

LISBON — A former Lisbon area man was given a prison term Thursday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp after he waived a motion for new trial and asked for immediate sentencing on a charge of incest.

George R. McHenry Sr., 51, of Dayton, Pa., was sentenced to 1-10 years at the Ohio State Penitentiary.

He was secretly indicted by the September Grand Jury, while living near Lisbon, but moved to Dayton and had to be extradited.

He pleaded not guilty but was convicted by a jury May 7 and was ordered to the Lima State Hospital for observation and report.

His attorney filed for a new trial while he was at Lima, but the defendant withdrew it.

Liquor Permit Denied For Hanoverton Pair

LISBON — The Ohio Department of Liquor Control at Columbus said it has rejected an application for a new C-2 permit filed by Kenneth and Goldie Dunn of Hanoverton R.D. 1, because the applicants have not lived in the state long enough.

They requested the permit for use at Guilford Lake, Hanover Township, but they had not resided in Ohio for one year prior to filing the application and are not qualified to hold a permit, the board ruled.

House Approves 'Wilderness Bill' In 373-1 Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a vote of 373 to 1, the House has passed a bill to establish a national wilderness preservation system.

The measure, passed in a similar form by the Senate, now goes to conference to work out differences between the two versions.

Only Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., opposed the bill.

Under the wilderness system, at least 9.2 million acres of federal land would be protected against most commercial uses so their natural conditions can be preserved. Another 5 million acres, designated as primitive lands, may be included later in the wilderness system.

The bill allows some livestock grazing, mining and prospecting on wilderness land.

It was the second consecutive exam held by the commission. A test for prospective school custodians was held Wednesday night. Both eligibility lists will remain in effect a year.

Truck, Car Damaged In Downtown Mishap

Two 1964 vehicles, a convertible and a pickup truck, were damaged in a traffic mishap in downtown East Liverpool Thursday at 10:30 p. m., police reported.

The collision on E. 5th St. 40 feet west of Crook Alley damaged a halted convertible driven by Harry E. George, 24, of 616 Grove Alley and a pickup driven by Charles F. Harris, 16, of Lisbon St. Ext.

George told police he was halted in a line of traffic when his car was hit from the rear. Harris said he attempted to stop, but his foot slipped off the brake pedal and hit the accelerator. The crash damaged the rear bumper of the auto and the front of the truck, breaking both headlights, officers said.

Nielsen Windfall Hits Mrs. McHale

Last February a kindly fate put me in touch with Mrs. Helen McHale, a nice grandmotherly type with two TV sets and two of the A. C. Nielsen Co.'s Recordimeters. Soon after I exposed this fact, a Nielsen man with a screw driver called on Mrs. McHale and took back the Recordimeters. At the Nielsen Co. it is not considered cricket for anyone being tested on his TV viewing habits to talk about it. Mrs. McHale didn't care because the Recordimeters had been on her two TV sets for nearly a year, and she was getting a bit weary of all the book work involved in keeping up the Audilog which goes with the Recordimeter.

BUT ONCE Mr. Nielsen gets your house number he apparently never reads you out of his family of guinea pigs, even if you've been a bad little pig and squealed.

The other day Mrs. McHale's postman dropped off a fat letter from Mr. Nielsen which began: "Recently you helped us a great deal by keeping a 'Diary' of the TV viewing done in your family. But in order to understand better which TV shows are liked best by various viewers, we need to know more about your family and the people in it. And the home office people forgot to ask you."

The next paragraph was the one which really hooked Mrs. McHale into getting Mr. Nielsen's questionnaire off to him post-haste.

"ENCLOSED," it went on, "is a new $1 bill to use whatever way you wish. Maybe you will want to donate it to your favorite charity or some other deserving group. Or perhaps you may want to surprise a favorite youngster or two. It's up to you."

Pretty heady stuff, eh? Suddenly falling heir to a brand new $1 bill could kick some poor soul into a life of depravity or even a higher tax bracket. What does Mr. Nielsen care? Money obviously means nothing to him.

Fortunately, Mrs. McHale is a conservative woman and not given to extravagance. After filling out the questionnaire, she tucked the brand new $1 bill into her apron and says she's still thinking of ways to spend it.

THIS LEGACY did give her one bad moment. In the questionnaire Mr. Nielsen sent her, he wanted to know what her income was. Should she include in this figure the brand new $1 bill he had just given her?

And what about the other $1 bills she had received for each diary she mailed in for her two Recordimeters each month for nearly a year? It came to almost $20.

Being an honest woman, Mrs. McHale included her income from Mr. Nielsen. To the best of her ability she also told him how much she spends on groceries each month, whether she drinks coffee or a substitute and if she is partial to toothpaste or tooth powder.

In a space for remarks, Mrs. McHale volunteered the information that she and her son are also suckers for celery and carrots. This was the least she could do for a man who suddenly just up and sent her a whole dollar.

THERE WAS A P.S. attached to Mr. Nielsen's letter which read: "We would like to hear from you even though you may have moved since you kept the 'Diary' of TV viewing. If you've been on vacation and your answer is delayed, please send it anyway — as soon as you can — and thanks again."

It so happened that none of the situations described in the P.S. applied to Mrs. McHale. She has not moved or been on vacation.

She has been in the hospital for a week and had major throat surgery, and the bill for the hospital and doctor happens to be Mrs. McHale's favorite charity — probably for a long time, since it comes to exactly 800 of those $1 bills.

The Spirit Of Iron

Pittsburgh - Steel Champ

By BOB VOELKER
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chicago people say their city is becoming the new steel capital. They claim the westward movement has swept the greatest steel center out of these wrinkled Ohio Valley hills and plopped it out there on the flat prairie.
Don't believe it, Chicago. It was a statistician who started the story. He added up some figures and made some comparisons.
But the people here know better. They consider the spirit, and they say the spirit isn't likely to leave these hills.

For it was in Pittsburgh that a young nation grew its muscles of steel.
Pittsburgh steel made by the old-timers was more than steel; it was sweat and blood and gloom and hope.
It was Pittsburgh iron that whizzed through the air at Gettysburg.
It was Pittsburgh steel that pushed railroads across the prairie. It was Pittsburgh steel that built so many of the great skyscrapers and bridges.
And it was mostly Pittsburgh steel that showed the Kaiser, Hitler, and some others a thing or two about industrial might.
You can make your Chicago steel for paper clips and can openers. You'll never make foot-and-a-half-thick armor for battleships, as Pittsburgh has.
Make your steel for beer cans and gaudy auto fenders. You'll never make the Empire State Building.
You'll make Chicago steel

4 At Osteopathic Hospital Treated

Four persons were treated Thursday at the Osteopathic Hospital following mishaps, and one was admitted.

William Vincent, 36, of 2217 Michigan Ave., was treated for a laceration of the scalp received when a box fell off a shelf and hit him while at work at the S. H. Bell Co. in East End.

Miss Susan Phillips, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Phillips of Kensington R. D. 1, injured her right shoulder when she fell out of a top bunk at Elkhorn Camp near Bergholz. She was treated.

Also at Elkhorn Camp, the with pushbuttons, with white-coated technicians peering at dials and gauges. The production line will be machines.

In Pittsburgh, steel was made with shovels. It was made in thunder and fire, in a smoky brilliance that glimmered off the rivers and filled the sulphur nights with sight and sound and smell.

It was made in weary, 16-hour days, by sweaty, grimy men putting down roots in a new world, by men who could speak but a few words of the English language.

That was the spirit that made Pittsburgh steel. It's a glory that cannot be erased, or stolen away.

Maybe, Chicago, the statistician will convince you that you are the new champion of steel. Perhaps, you will feel high and mighty.

If you do, you might — from time to time — slip off your crown of steel and read the inscription inside. It says: "Made in Pittsburgh."

Rev. Russell M. Smith, 38, of Follansbee suffered a possible fractured right wrist when he fell while running. He was admitted.

Mrs. Mary Chafin, 31, of 1271 Northside Ave., was treated after sustaining a fracture of the left foot when she fell down steps at home.

Mrs. Lois Robinson, 58, of 918 St. Clair was treated after she became ill at work.

Sen. Goldwater Relaxes Before Campaign Drive

MONTE RIO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate, relaxed today in Caveman's Camp at the exclusive Bohemian Grove.

Here among the towering trees, Goldwater is spending a couple of days as the guest of retired Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer and Herbert Hoover Jr.

The senator's sons disclosed earlier that their family was fearful of an assassination attempt on his life. Barry Jr., 26, and Mike, 24, said at the close of their Hawaiian vacation Wednesday that extra security measures have been taken to protect their father's life.

Barry Jr. told newsmen in Honolulu that though "loyal, devoted and fervent people" were working for his father's election, some "rabid and venomous people" were dedicating themselves to his defeat.

He said there is "always the possibility that someone may make the attempt to kill dad. It's just one of those things we have to live with."

Chrysler Set To Fight For Truck Firm

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. will fight the government's effort to stop its plan to take over 48-year-old Mack Trucks, Inc., in a multimillion-dollar deal.

A civil antitrust suit was brought by the Justice Department Thursday against Chrysler at Newark, N.J.

Chrysler promptly denied the government's charge the move would reduce competition in the auto industry.

The Chrysler statement said further it was "dismaying and strange" that the government should move at this time in an "eleventh - hour action." The auto company said it had kept the government fully informed since the deal was broached three months ago.

Federal Judge Reynier Wortendyke of Newark issued a temporary restraining order enjoining Chrysler from going ahead with the acquisition of Mack Trucks.

The government is to follow up with a request for a preliminary injunction, a Justice Department spokesman said.

Acting under the Clayton and Sherman antitrust laws, the government charged the deal would substantially reduce competition in the truck and diesel engine industries.

The government also said the transaction would mean the elimination of competition between Chrysler and Mack Trucks in trucks and parts.

The complaint said it might mean foreclosure of diesel engine manufacturers other than Mack from selling to Chrysler and an increase in an already severe concentration in truck manufacturing, possibly fostering mergers by other companies.

Chrysler makes the Dodge truck. Mack is a leading manufacturer of heavy-duty trucks. The government said Chrysler had total sales of $3.5 billion last year and Mack $305 million.

Alabama Man Named To GOP Directorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — John E. Grenier, 33, a Birmingham attorney and Alabama Republican chairman, has been named to succeed William S. Warner as executive director of the Republican National Committee.

Grenier, named Thursday by GOP National Chairman Dean Burch, served as southern regional chairman of the Goldwater-for-President Committee.

U.S. Asks Condition For Meeting On Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is understood to have insisted on Communist withdrawal from newly conquered Laotian territory as one condition for a new international conference on the prolonged crisis in the Southeast Asian country.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk called Soviet Minister-Counselor Georgi M. Kornienko to the State Department Thursday to give him the U.S. answer to the Soviet proposal Sunday for a new 14-nation conference on Laos.

In making the proposal, the Soviet Union warned that it might resign its role as co-chairman with Britain if there was not some effort to get a conference organized.

Youth Is Bound Over In Shooting

LISBON — An Apples Corners youth was bound over to the September Grand Jury at a preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon by county court Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine in a shooting case.

Walter Beatty Jr., 18, was held for court for shooting with intent to kill or wound, as charged by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan. He allegedly shot Ira Baird of Youngstown Saturday afternoon in an orchard near Apples Corners, at the junction of Routes 30 and 267, northwest of East Liverpool.

Baird's condition was reported "critical" at South Side Hospital in Youngstown, where nine .22-caliber bullets were removed from his head. He was left partially paralyzed.

The shooting occurred in an orchard near the home of the defendant's grandparents, Mr.

and Mrs. George Miller. Both Baird and Beatty work at the National Rubber Machinery Co. and apparently there was ill feeling between them. Baird sells cars on the side and the two were en route through the orchard to the grandmother's home to obtain her permission for Beatty to buy a car.

Beatty was unable to post $5,000 bond and remains in the County Jail.

Use Isometrics For Muscle Toning

We tend to take on adipose tissue in much the same pattern. The excess fat crowds the waist, pads the abdomen and upholsters the hips. The back of the upper arms is another favorite parking spot.

Isometric contraction cuts exercise time to a few minutes a day. The essence of the technique is the held position. Hold each contraction for 6 to 8 seconds. Once pressure is applied. There should be no movement during the "hold" period. For toning muscles, isometrics are sheer magic!

First, get your posture on the beam, for posture shapes your figure.

POSITION: Lie on back on floor, knees flexed, soles of feet flat on floor. Have arms out at shoulder level, forearms back, to form a letter L each side. This squares your shoulders beautifully.

Action: Pull up and in firmly with the girdle muscles, pressing small of back to floor. H-o-l-d. Hold this muscle contraction to a count of 10, or for 6 to 8 seconds. Hold shoulders flat on floor, too.

The second contraction tones the side - front muscles, the obliques. Position: Same as above.

Action: Raise hips just an inch off floor and tilt slightly to the right, then pull in forcibly with the side-front abdominals. H-o-l-d to a count of 10. Return to center, tilt hips slightly to left, again pull in forcibly and h-o-l-d.

Relax there on the floor in this restful position. Then do an easy isometric exercise to strengthen the muscles which support the bust, the pectorals. The direction is an in-push, as in the following.

Bend elbows, and keeping arms at chest level, place palm of one hand in palm of other hand, fingers pointing in opposite directions. P-u-s-h, pressing one palm forcibly against the other palm and hold for a count of 10. This contraction also tones the triceps muscles which flank the backs of upper arms.

TO FLATTEN the abdomen: Position: Lie on back on floor, hand on hips, elbows off floor, legs straight down.

Action: Raise head and shoulders and feet from the floor. . . only a few inches. H-o-l-d. Hold this contraction for a count of 6 to 10, depending on your strength. Relax.

Do each of these toners just once a day, always sure to hold muscle contraction to a count of 10. What about breathing? The rule is to do little breathing during the holding period, but breathe deeply between contractions. Relax between each exercise.

Your dietitian is now off on vacation. I'll be back August 31. Carry on. . . happy summer slimming!

Landis, 64, Dies In Pool; Adviser To 3 Presidents

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—James M. Landis, 64, adviser to three Democratic presidents, was found dead in the swimming pool at his home Thursday night.

One of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's original "brain trust" in 1933, Landis' final government post was as adviser on government regulatory agencies to President John F. Kennedy.

He was dean of Harvard Law School from 1937 to 1946.

A neighborhood boy found the body and tried artificial respiration. Landis was wearing swimming trunks. He had a history of heart trouble.

Landis' career was marred 11 months ago by his conviction on a misdemeanor charge of filing late federal income tax returns. He had paid the taxes, and said the late filing was just "folly."

He was sentenced to 30 days in prison, but served it mostly in a hospital because of heart and nerve ailments.

202 Dead In Spread Of Cholera Over India

More than 1,200 cases have been reported.

Children Ask For Help With Problems

Over the many years in which I have written this column, an occasional teen-ager has written me about some personal problem. As I recall, the problem usually concerned worries over feelings of inferiority.

During the last several months an increasing number of letters from boys and girls, 8, 10 or 12, about such matters as thumb-sucking, nail-biting, even bed-wetting. I always answer these children personally and as kindly as I can.

When a child so strongly desires to quit sucking his thumb, biting his nails or wetting his bed, as to resolve to write to a person he supposes can help him, he has taken a long step toward self-cure. He has resolved to manage himself, and is ready to carry out advice on ways of curing himself.

HOW DIFFERENT are his feelings and experience when his mother writes about him or consults a specialist! For many months and years his mother has tried to get him to "break the habit" and often has been vexed that he did not respond. Around the problem are associated many unhappy moments in relation to her, to the family, and to neighbors and other relatives.

Of course, in writing these children I tell them I assume that they and their parents have had medical advice, especially in bed-wetting cases. For instance, there could be some local infection. Also, with nail-biting and thumb-sucking, the patient may need help in growing more calm, strong and healthy in body.

Often the nail-biter is jittery or nervous; and the thumb-sucking child may have emotional problems. A physician may help. Also I tell the child that if he has other worries I wish he would tell me about them. I try to treat him as the important person he really is.

But, as a rule, all these problems can best be solved by the child himself, once he makes up his mind to solve them. The older he is, the more he may do himself.

IN WRITING to these children, I compliment them on their decision to tackle the problem themselves. I try to assure them that they need no longer feel ashamed of the matter, but consider it only a personal nuisance or inconvenience.

I can honestly tell them that I know how they feel, as I can recall how I felt when such problems faced me, especially of my suffering as a late bed-wetter and the great satisfaction I had when victory came.

I'm sure these children need to feel they can succeed in curing themselves. So I try, sincerely, to assure them that they can succeed, warning them that they may backslide now and then, and entreating them not to be come discouraged. I suggest that, if they will keep their mind on their successes and then praise themselves, they will do well.

Recently I've begun asking them to write me later and let me know how they are getting along. It is too early for such replies, but, when any word of victory comes to me, I surely will write the sinner to felicitate him or her. I sometimes wish I had a fund out of which I could bestow a material reward for victory. But maybe that would not prove important.

AFTER A YEAR or so, I may be able to tell you in this column whether or not I have received any concrete encouragement in this enterprise. I do want you parents to know that the apparent opportunity I have to help a few children gives me a lot of inner glow.

My bulletins, "The Nervous Child," "Thumbsucking - Prevention and Cure" and "Psychology Applied to Bed - wetting," may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard on Friday overruled the motion for new trial in the case of Frederick C. Minamy of Salem, and not Judge Joel H. Sharp, as was reported in The Review Tuesday.

Minamy was indicted by the April Grand jury for sodomy. It was Judge Sharp's term of court, but he excused himself, as Minamy's sister worked for them, and Judge Buzzard presided at the trial when Minamy was found guilty May 20. Counsel for Minamy said he will appeal to the 7th District Appellate Court.

Kiwanis Delegate Reports On Activities At Convention

Alex Kidd addressed fellow-members of the Kiwanis Club at the Thursday noon luncheon in the Travelers Hotel on his recent trip as official delegate to the international convention in Los Angeles.

Kidd thanked the club for giving him a chance to broaden his geographical and Kiwanis knowledge and added that it was a very enjoyable experience for he and his wife, Helen.

Kidd reported the Ohio delegation stayed at the Chapman Hotel in Los Angeles. The convention was held in the large Los Angeles Sports Arena.

A wide variety of entertainment was provided during its five-day session, which included addresses from such movie and TV personalities as Gale Storm, Loren Green (Ben Cartwright) of the TV show "Bonanza," Dennis Day and Ronald Reagan.

Kidd related Edwin P. Neiland, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, gave one of the principal talks.

Kidd said he attended a meeting of the committee making preparations for the golden anniversary celebration of Kiwanis International next year.

It will open Jan. 31 in Detroit and will be highlighted July 6 with a "Kiwanis Day" at the New York World's Fair.

Several resolutions and seven amendments to the national by-laws were approved at the convention.

Guests at the luncheon were Edwin Clark, 22, son of John Clark, Kiwanian; Norman Pierce of Clearwater, Fla., formerly of East Liverpool, and John Golden of Columbiana.

J. N. Nicely, president, presided and 32 were present. Kidd is first vice president.

The group will meet again next Thursday noon at the Travelers Hotel. Jim Walker is program chairman.

Hints from Heloise

(— By Heloise Cruse —)

Dear Heloise: A delightful way to put sparkle in the eyes of children is by making a money birthday cake.

After the cake has been baked, small openings or slits can be made with a knife in the cake at intervals all the way around, so that each piece of cake will include some money.

Pennies, nickels and dimes will thrill the children. For sanitary purposes, the money should be wrapped in foil before inserting it in the cake.

When this money is slipped into the openings and the cake is frosted, the money-birthday cake is complete and you become the children's favorite hostess.

GRACE JAMISON.

DEAR HELOISE: If you have had numerous complaints from readers, similar to one of your reader's sad experience with lined rubber gloves, perhaps my letter will help them.

When I'm finished with a cleaning job, I wash my rubber gloves with soap and water while they are still on my hands. After I take them off I rinse the insides with first ... hot and then cold water under the faucet.

I then turn down the top or gauntlet of the gloves so that three - fourths of them are actually inside out, except the fingers. I stand the gloves up on the gauntlet edge on a clean paper towel so that they will dry thoroughly.

My gloves are fresh-smelling and ready for use the next time they are needed.

MRS. ROMA MARTIN.

DEAR HELOISE: I remove rust stains from my linoleum and asphalt tile floors by sprinkling a powdered cleanser on the spots and then scrubbing gently with a soap-filled pad, using just enough water to make a good paste. This usually gets off most, if not all, of the spots.

CAROLYN SOMMERS.

Ladies, when you remove an appliance from your asphalt or inlaid linoleum floors and find rust spots on your floors, try this method. Be sure to scrub gently! It does work.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Recently, after having a broken arm and not being able to scour the pots and pans, especially the egg cups of our egg poacher ... I discovered that I could place a paper bake cup in each egg cup, add a small amount of butter, and then replace the lid until the butter was melted (or one could use liquid shortening) ...

I then add my eggs, after the butter has melted, and cook as usual.

By inverting the egg cup the paper slips out easily. Presto! No scouring at all.

MRS. H. E. S.

Smooth as a whistle and works beautifully.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: The devilish propensity of a turnip for rolling while one is trying to (fearfully) slice it, led me to consider cutting a small piece off the round side, which induced stability, and I haven't cut off a finger since!

JULIETTE TUELL.

DEAR HELOISE: When it comes time to clean your windows, I want to offer a little hint. The windows with metal guards always leave skinned knuckles when you reach through to the pane from the outside. Try using a sponge dish mop with a handle about 12 inches long.

This will clean the window and not leave the streaks which a cloth leaves. Besides ... it saves you many bandages!

MRS. E. M. A.

Trial By Jury Asked In Suit For $150,000

Clyde Kidder, 2103 Crawford Ave., has demanded a jury trial of his $150,000 damage suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., alleging he suffered emphysema because of the company's neglect in properly ventilating the conductors' building at the Conway Yards, where he is employed.

Kidder, Pennsy employe for 23 years, filed suit in U. S. District Court in Pittsburgh under the Federal Employment Liability Act of 1908.

The freight conductor operates the "push - button" electronic gear in a building on "the hump" at the Conway Yards, sorting cars for various destinations as trains are made up.

He said the 8-x-12-foot building in which he works was air conditioned originally and windows and door had to be kept closed. But the conditioning device was removed and no ventilation was provided since an exhaust fan was taken out a year ago, with the result "fumes, smoke and dust was allowed to enter the building through the unlatched door because of the neglect of the railroad."

He charges the condition pre-ment of health, body and his nervous system.

He charges the condition prevailed for four years. He was unable to work in various periods, he alleges, the latest in March-May, and he fears further unemployment and loss of earnings. He is now working part-time. Trial date will be set after the railroad files an answer.

UNDERWATER BLACKOUT

Q. Does deep breathing before an endurance underwater swim greatly increase the time a swimmer can remain submerged?

A. No. In fact, the results may be tragic. Underwater swimmers hyperventilate in an effort to increase the oxygen content of the blood and thus delay the time when the desire to breathe becomes overwhelming. However, the increase in arterial oxygen by hyperventilation is very small. Of greater importance is the fact that the submerged hyperventilated swimmer may lose consciousness without experiencing a great desire to breathe. As few as 15 deep breaths before an underwater swim can set the stage for a blackout ... and possible disaster.

SURGERY SAFER FOR AGED

Q. Is advanced age a bar to surgery?

A. Not necessarily. Although many older patients have poor physical reserves, they can be subjected to necessary operations with not much greater risk than for young persons. However, needed surgery should be performed when patients are younger — when it can be planned and performed under ideal conditions. In the aged, surgery is more likely to be of the emergency kind.

Extra Inning Rally

Phillies Increase Lead In 4-3 Win Over Giants

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
John Briggs is a listening man's thinker.

In this case, Briggs, a Philadelphia rookie, was doing the thinking and the listening at the same time.

The mental feat, plus the two-run double that resulted from it, brought the Phillies a 4-3 triumph over San Francisco in 10 innings Thursday night and boosted Philadelphia's National League lead to 1 1/2 games over the second-place Giants.

The Phillies were in danger of tumbling from the top after the Giants took a 3-2 lead in their 10th. But Johnny Callison doubled, Tony Taylor was hit by a pitch and Richie Allen beat out an infield hit, all with none out. Up came Briggs, using a different bat. It was Allen's longer and heavier bat, and the 20-year-old left-hander was trying it for the first time.

The ball shot out to the right field wall for a double, sending Callison and Taylor across with the tying and winning runs.

Not so fortunate was Casey Stengel, who celebrated his 74th birthday by watching his New York Mets lose to the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3. Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh moved into third place by sweeping Houston 1-0 and 8-3 and St. Louis defeated Chicago 5-2.

In the American League, Baltimore overpowered Minnesota 7-4, Chicago blanked Detroit 2-0 and Washington outlasted Cleveland 8-7.

The Phillies led 2-1 until Willie McCovey smashed his 14th homer in the ninth inning with one out. San Francisco then went in front 3-2 in the 10th as Harvey Kuenn singled, took second on a wild pitch, went to third on a sacrifice and came home on a single by Willie Mays.

Gus Triandos homered for the Phillies in the third while Jesus Alou connected in the Giants' fifth.

The Mets appeared well on their way toward handing Stengel a delightful birthday present, the first victory over Sandy Koufax in their brief history. Bob Taylor had given New York a 3-0 lead with a three-run homer in the fourth.

But the Dodgers scored two runs in the seventh on Jim Gilliam's single, Willie Davis' triple and an infield out, then tied the game in the eighth on a run-scoring double by Wally Moon, who batted for Koufax. The Dodgers rallied for two runs in the ninth, Tommy Davis driving in the winning tally with a single.

The Pirates got tight pitching from Vernon Law and Don Schwall in their sweep of Houston. Law pitched a five-hitter in the opener and scored the only run on Bill Virdon's single in the sixth inning.

Schwall held the Colts scoreless in the nightcap until the ninth inning when a three-run outburst brought on reliever Al McBean. Jerry Lynch homered in the fourth and singled in the first two runs in the Pirates' seven-run sixth.

Bill White drove in four runs as the Cardinals increased their winning streak to six games, longest in the league this season. White singled across two runs in the third, knocked in another with a single in the seventh and sent home the fourth with a ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

Junior Editors Quiz on POPCORN

QUESTION: What makes popcorn pop?

ANSWER: "Corn," as a word, once had the meaning of a small hard particle, which might refer to bits of sand, gunpowder or salt as well as to grain. In England, the word is used for wheat, and in Scotland and Ireland for oats. In 1492, Columbus explorers found corn growing in Cuba and learned it was called "maize." Because of the small kernels, however, this plant, new to Europeans, became known as "corn." There are several kinds of corn, such as dent, flint, sweet and popcorn. This last is a development of flint corn, which is often grown in the northern U.S. and Canada. Popcorn has small ears and hard, pointed kernels. When dried and then suddenly heated, these explode or pop, turning into the much larger, white and delicious morsels we call popcorn. Scientists are not entirely certain as to how the kernels pop, but they think moisture inside is turned into steam, which then suddenly explodes the kernels' hard shells. Popcorn plants are grown closer together than any other corn plants and the ears are allowed to dry out on the plant. Much popcorn comes from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Iowa.

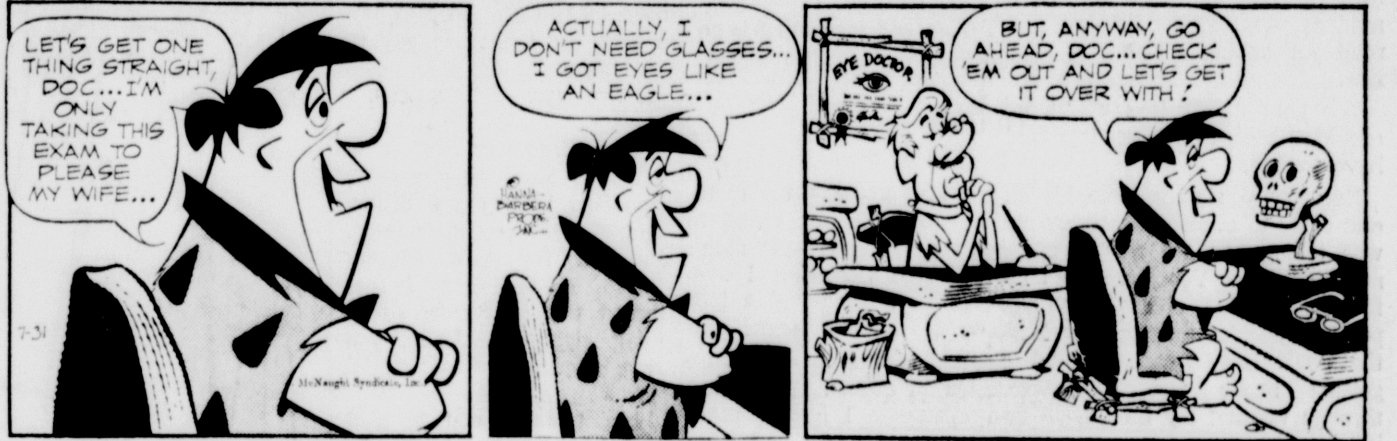

FOR YOU TO DO: Get your mother to cooperate with you in trying this popcorn recipe: Combine a half cup each of molasses and corn syrup with a half tablespoon of vinegar. Cook, stirring occasionally until a small amount will form a ball in cold water. Take from stove, pour over 6 cups salted popped corn, moulding into balls into balls with lightly buttered fingers.

Today is Friday, July 31, the 213th day of 1964. There are 153 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1777, the Marquis de La Fayette offered his services to the struggling American colonies. Congress promptly accepted the offer and made the French nobleman a major general.

In 1877, Thomas A. Edison took out an early patent leading to his later development of the phonograph.
In 1917, the World War I Battle of Flanders began.
In 1953, Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, died after a long and distinguished career in the U.S. Senate.

Odd Facts
Like a European touch to a cake? Add poppy seeds to a white butter cake. To ready the seeds, soak them in scalded milk overnight or until the milk is completely absorbed. Use a quarter cup milk to two ounces of the seeds for the soaking.
Scientists discovered aluminum in the 1800's, and at first it was rare and very costly. The first object ever made of aluminum was a toy rattle made in the 1850's for the baby son of Napoleon III. One of the earliest uses of aluminum in construction was in the Washington Monument.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem which I'm sure you can't solve, but I'm going to tell you about it just to get it off my chest.

My problem is that I'm hooked on your column. Sometimes when you hand out that high-sounding advice I get so mad at you I swear I'll never read you again so long as I live.

The next day I find myself sneaking back to see what you have to say.

Recently you gave some idiotic reply to a college boy who was telling you the way it is now, Granny. You came out four-square for chastity and purity. I decided then and there that "Old Lady Landers" was getting senile and I was through wasting my time reading her claptrap.

The next morning I did NOT read your column. When I got to work everybody was talking about the letters from all those nutty people who wrote in to tell Ben's wife how to cure the rash on her hands.

I felt like a yokel, an ignoramus — completely out of it. So, here I am back, disagreeing with you one-third of the time, hating you and loving you.—HOPELESSLY ADDICTED.

Dear Addicted: Welcome back. And I hope you never manage to kick the habit.

Slovenly Housekeeper

Dear Ann: I own a small business and work six days a week from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. On Tuesdays and Fridays I have to get my own supper because my wife has choir practice and ladies aid.

I give my wife $300 a month for the table and spending money. Whenever she needs more she gets it. In return this is what she does:

She cleans the icebox once in four months. The house looks like a pigpen until I scream about it and then she rearranges the dirt. If a guest accidentally should open a closet he might be seriously injured by the avalanche.

She is neat as a pin about herself but the filth in the house is unbelievable.

Is this normal? She keeps shoving your column under my nose when it serves her purpose. Will you please print this letter so I can shove one under hers for a change?—NEW ROCHELLE.

Dear New: Shoving the column under your wife's nose will not help. May I make a more practical suggestion? Hire a cleaning woman to come in twice a week and deduct the cost from that $300 monthly allowance.

Yelling and screaming is no substitute for positive action.

Drummer Boy

Dear Ann: Three years ago, on my 13th birthday, my mother announced I was going to take violin lessons. I didn't care for the violin but I took lessons for a year and a half just to please Mom. Then I quit.

Several months ago I got interested in drums. Out of my own allowance I bought practice pads and books and have been teaching myself.

At Christmas time I didn't get a gift from my folks because they said they had ordered drums for me and I should be patient.

Well, here it is July and no drums. I asked my mother what happened and she said, "Your father and I heard Ann Landers speak and she said kids should EARN things and they will appreciate them more. So you are going to have to earn the money to pay for your drums."

Is this fair:—TROUBLED.

Dear Troubled: No, it is not fair. Since your parents promised to buy you drums they should keep their word. I'm all for kids earning things, so tell them I suggested that you earn something else. The drums you have coming.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rights Suit Filed In Cemetery Ban

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A civil rights suit was filed in Circuit Court Thursday charging a Peoria cemetery with racial discrimination against the dead.

Billy V. Clemons, 33, a Negro, charged that the Memorial Gardens Association, which operates the Swan Lake Memory Gardens Cemetery, refused to sell him two adult burial plots.

Clemons' suit, which asks $1,000 damages, also alleges that an agent from the association informed him that another cemetery was the only one in the city where Negroes could be buried.

In his suit, Clemons said he was informed by the corporation that he could not purchase the burial lots because of litigation pending on racial deed restrictions in force when they purchased the property.
